Author

Hilary Rogers is a Melbourne writer and publisher. In her previous role as publishing director at Hardie Grant Egmont, Hilary created some of Australia's most beloved series for kids, including Billie B Brown, Squishy Taylor, Go Girl and Zac Power. Many of her series went on to sell into the millions in ANZ alone, as well as securing countless international deals around the globe.

Girltopia (Scholastic, September 2018) is the first in a middle-grade trilogy, and marks Hilary's thrilling debut as an author. She has also co-written a ridiculously fabulous series of books called The Frooties (Scholastic, August 2018) with her writing partner Josh Lefers.

Hilary is co-director of Interrobang, a book-creation venture with writer and entrepreneur Josh Lefers.

PUBLICATIONS

Girltopia, 2018

The Frooties #1: Bad Apple, 2018

The Frooties #2: Crazy Kiwi, 2018

REVIEWS

"In Girltopia, Hilary Rogers has created a fast-paced, exciting novel with just the right balance of intrigue and personal journey. Clara's physical and emotional development is sensitively portrayed, and Rogers deftly explores female coming-of-age issues amid the action of the story."
