

Dear Readers

When I was a kid I wanted to be two things, an inventor and a ninja. Then one day I decided I wanted to be both at the same time! I daydreamed about being a superhero who had the speed and reflexes of a ninja, but also the equipment of a crazy inventor. Imagine flying jetpacks and solar-powered running shoes, or a pushbike that ran on bananas! This would be sooo awesome.

Then my daydreaming led me to imagine how the sneakers might malfunction and start running backwards if the sun went behind a cloud. Or how the banana pushbike might get you chased by monkeys . . . it would be sooo funny . . . and that's how Ninja Kid emerged!

Ninja Kid is the story of a normal schoolboy who suddenly finds himself in charge of a ninja legacy, who must somehow save the world armed only with crazy inventions that occasionally malfunction.

Ninja Kid's adventures are both AWESOME and FUNNY! I hope you enjoy reading it!
