

As the children sat down to start their day,
 whispers of excitement began to sway.
 'What are we doing?' They did not yet know
 of ADVENTURES that awaited;
 where might they go?

The teacher stood up and asked with a grin,
 'Can anyone guess where our day might begin?'
 The children got thinking as ideas came to mind,
 thinking and DREAMING of what they might find.

'I want to go to space,' Van called out,
'to see the moon and stars all DAZZLING about.'

'Can we fight DRAGONS with swords and shields

in faraway lands, where adventure never yields?'

From beach adventures
to travelling through space;
circus wonders to
a JUNGLE'S untamed grace.

They encountered their DRAGONS and unicorns so grand
and castles of bubblegum built by hand.
