Ollie Herisson's dad is a diplomat, which means her family moves around a lot. She has already lived in Singapore, Korea and France. When Ollie starts at a new school, she doesn't worry about making a good impression because she knows she'll get a fresh start when they move again. A complete reset. It doesn't matter if everyone think she's weird for pretending that she lives in the world of an imagined anime, or if the most popular girl in her class hates her, or if she does something hugely embarrassing! And it definitely doesn't matter that her mum wants Ollie to be a proper Thai daughter.

But after a mortifying first day at her new school, Ollie learns that her parents are going to buy a house so that she and her sister can finish school in one place. Can Ollie learn to be herself and make real friends when she can't just run away?

There are places in the world so remote, that if you get lost, you may never be found.

Olive, Ted, Knox, Birdie and Silas enter a challenge to survive in the wild, without technology. Their stage? The majestic Blue Mountains.

Working as a team, they must read maps, build fires, camp and trek through the most dangerous of terrain, in subzero temperatures.

But when the teenagers are split over a decision to climb a dangerous rock, disaster strikes. And in their quest for survival, one of them makes an unforgivable choice. With catastrophic consequences.

Nobody is blameless. And they may not all make it home. But those who do, may never forgive each other.

SALES POINTS:

- A gripping new thriller from critically acclaimed Australian author Hayley Lawrence.
- The story follows five teenagers on their quest to survive wild, dangerous terrain without technology.
- Beautifully written from the perspectives of two of the teens: Olive, who is on a personal quest to find her dead mum's spirit, and Ted, who is desperate to show Birdie, the second girl in the group, how much he loves her.
- Compelling, suspenseful and utterly mesmerising.

What is that blue 'Thing' that has turned up in BatKiwi's forest?

"BatKiwi!" came the call. "Save us!"

Whatever the 'Thing' is that Kiwi and Bat found, they hoped it would go away. But it didn't. Which was just as well, for summertime in the forest was turning into a Big Wet. Everything turned dark and gloomy and it rained and rained ... and rained! As floodwaters began to rise, the 'Thing' began to float and Kiwi had an idea: "Bring me everyone who needs saving," he told Bat.

SALES POINTS:

- The third in the popular BatKiwi series, which introduces a variety of NZ creatures and sees these two friends once again come to the rescue.
- Melinda Szymanik's clever text is as much fun for the adults reading aloud as it is for children to listen to.
- Isobel Joy Te Aho-White's stunning illustrations beautifully capture the uniqueness of these New Zealand animals and their emotions.

There's a reason families usually live together—to contain the horror and not inflict it on others. A family holiday is a really, really bad idea! After a super embarrassing situation at school, Jakob decides the only way to escape the ridicule is to leave the country on a family holiday. But with a cheapskate worry-wart for a dad and an obnoxiously loud optimist for a mum, fresh humiliation is around every corner. Even worse, the weirdest girl at school is coming along for the ride and won't let Jakob out of her sight. Jakob thinks he has hit rock-bottom. Little does he know there is always further to fall in a family holiday disaster!

SALES POINTS:

- A brand-new comedic junior fiction series from the creators of the hilarious The Nerd Herd series, Nathan Luff and Chris Kennett.
- Packed full of fast-paced action, laugh-out-loud gags and super-cringe embarrassing moments.

 Dimensions: 210 X 140 MM
 Page Count: 304 PP

Seventeen-year-old Eleanor is nothing like her hero Eleanor Roosevelt. She is timid and altogether uncertain that she has much to offer the world. And as World War II rages overseas, Eleanor is consumed with worry for her Jewish relatives in Europe. When a chance encounter proves her to be a one-in-a-generation maths whiz—a fact she has worked hard all her life to hide—Eleanor gets recruited by the US Army and entrusted with the ultimate challenge: to fine-tune a top-secret weapon that will help America defeat its enemies in World War II and secure the world's freedom. This could be her chance to help save her family in Poland. Soon, she's swept from the basement of an Ivy League engineering school to the desert of California to an Army Air Corps base at Pearl Harbor, and finally, she takes to the skies above the South Pacific. But before she can solve this complicated problem, she must learn to unlock a bigger mystery: herself. The critically acclaimed author of The Poetry of Secrets, Cambria Gordon weaves an extraordinary story of remarkable courage and the will to unearth our deepest secrets, based on previously undiscovered true events.

SALES POINTS:

- Gordon highlights the important contributions of young women during the war effort, many of whom have been forgotten and overshadowed by the triumphs of their male counterparts.
- Gordon is the co-author of the award-winning The Down-to-Earth Guide to Global Warming with Laurie David, published in 12 countries.
- Ruta Sepetys called Gordon's previous YA novel, The Poetry of Secrets, "an epic, poetic journey."
- Cambria Gordon is well-connected in Hollywood and also the Jewish journalism world.
- World War II remains an evergreen topic in the YA historical lit space, and Gordon writes about a little-known and relatively unexplored, feminist aspect of this history.

SALES POINTS:

- Fascinating facts and inspirational details from the lives and careers of beloved players.
- An addictive biography series for young football fans.
- A great alternative for emerging readers who prefer fact to fiction.
- Illustrated by Manchester-based artist, Stanley Chow, whose iconic work has found worldwide acclaim.

Erika knows that people find her weird and off-putting. Instead of making friends, she finds solace in talking to herself and obsessing over handsome actors and pop stars. When she starts attending a new school, her loneliness takes on a life of its own and she develops a new obsession: the cutest boy in her theatre class, Christian. For some reason, Christian is kind to her and even agrees to star in the play that she wrote for him, and Erika starts to find a creative voice that might lead to new friendship and romance. But the more time Erika spends with Christian, the more she wonders what he sees in a creep like her. Can Erika somehow write her way into the centre of her own heartfelt love story? Or does Christian have an ending of his own in mind?

SALES POINTS:

- A lighthearted YA rom-com for fans of Heartstopper, Pumpkinheads and Bloom.
- Victoria's fun, bubbly, and expressive art style brings a new light and interpretation to the classic Phantom of the Opera story.
- Readers don't need to know anything about The Phantom of the Opera to enjoy the story!

Ten-year-old Anang wants to make a ribbon skirt, a piece of clothing typically worn by girls in the Anishinaabe tradition, for an upcoming powwow. Anang is two-spirit and nonbinary and doesn't know what others will think of them wearing a ribbon skirt, but they're determined to follow their heart's desire. Anang sets off to gather the materials needed to make the skirt and turns to those around them—their family, their human and turtle friends, the crows, and even the lake itself—for help. And maybe they'll even find a new confidence within themselves along the way.

SALES POINTS:

- With themes exploring both cultural and personal identity, The Ribbon Skirt will appeal to fans of middle-grade coming-of-age stories about characters learning to accept themselves as they are.
- Timely, sensitive, and very much needed, this story is one of queer, nonbinary happiness and acceptance.
- Cameron Mukwa's bright colours and bold artwork bring to life not only Anishinaabe fashion and culture, but also all the people and spirits that make up the protagonist's community.

Two girls are desperate to catch a murderer! Oli Parish is numb after the death of her sister Eloise. And the killer is still on the loose. But nothing gets in the way of her visiting the site where her sister's body was discovered. But on one of her visits, Oli hears a voice calling for help and then she sees a hand clawing its way through the dirt. But this is no ghost—it's a young girl named Iris. She has no memory of what happened to her and how she ended up in the same shallow grave as Eloise. But Oli knows that Iris must in some way be connected to her sister's murder. Together, the two girls team up to unravel the mystery of who is behind the crimes.

SALES POINTS:

- Rice is the New York Times best-selling author of 36 novels, which have been translated into 27 languages, with many adapted for TV. She's a star in the adult world, and has done well in YA.
- Pretend She's Here, Rice's most recent YA thriller, was one of the top sellers for Book Fairs, and they will support this new thriller in a big way.
- This fast-paced murder mystery will appeal to fans of Karen McManus, E. Lockhart, April Henry, Holly Jackson, and more.
- Of Pretend She's Here, best-selling author Harlan Coben said "This riveting novel will dazzle you with its suspense and twists—and most of all its deep emotional truths."

Molly Teng sees things no one else can. By touching the belongings of people who have died, she gets brief glimpses into the lives they lived. Sometimes the “zaps” are funny or random, but often they leave her feeling sad, drained, and lonely. The last thing Jade remembers from life is dying. That was over one hundred years ago. Ever since then she’s been trapped in the same house watching people move in and out. She’s a ‘hungry ghost’ reliant on the livings’ food scraps to survive. To most people she is only a shadow, a ghost story, a superstition. Molly is not most people. When she moves into Jade’s house, nothing will ever be the same—for either of them. After over a century alone, Jade might finally have someone who can help her uncover the secrets of her past, and maybe even find a way out of the house—before her hunger destroys them both.

SALES POINTS:

- Middle Grade horror is booming. Hungry Bones adds a much needed underrepresented voice to a popular genre, with a Chinese American protagonist who is dealing with anxiety and depression.
- Louise Hung is a writer and researcher for The Order of the Good Death and the YouTube series Ask a Mortician starring Caitlin Doughty.
- The author has written extensively about death, grief rituals and ghosts.

The friends in the Hundred-Acre Wood are embarking on an exciting adventure. Pooh is on the search for honey, Christopher Robin has been captured and poor Eeyore has lost his tail! Can Pooh and his friends save the day?

When Rapunzel meets Flynn Rider, she thinks her dreams of adventure and seeing the floating lights might finally come true. But what do the lights mean and why do they only appear on Rapunzel's birthday?

Lightning McQueen is a hotshot rookie racing car, competing for the famous Piston Cup. When he makes an unexpected pit stop on his way to the decider race, Lightning finds himself stuck in a sleepy little town called Radiator Springs. Will Lightning make it out in time to be the Piston Cup's next champion?
